

SAY PEACE, AND READY FOR WAR

Russian Government Makes All Preparations For War While Talking Of Peace.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE NOT YET BEGUN

Japanese Official Declares His Country Is Ready To Listen To Proposals To Come From Russia.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

March 29.—A prominent diplomat said today: "The government is now for peace, but continues to prepare for war." A commission under the presidency of Grand Duke Nicholas is carefully reviewing the situation with reference to the prosecution of the war and expects to make a complete report to the Emperor in ten days.

It was stated with "every semblance of authority" that, thanks to the good offices of the United States and France, the question of peace had assumed practical shape.

The St. Petersburg government has allowed the news that peace negotiations have been begun to reach the world. The czar has outlined the conditions under which he is willing to negotiate with Japan and the end of the war is expected within a short time.

Due to America and France.

Much credit is given to the United States and France for the result. The part played by these nations in the successful diplomatic maneuvers is not revealed, but the relief of the Russian officials who have been seeking to end the disastrous conflict with Japan is apparent.

A telegram from northern European capital received in London says: "I have just learned on reliable authority that Russia has asked Delcasse to act as an intermediary and open peace negotiations with Japan. Delcasse has signified his willingness, but considers that Lansdowne's cooperation is essential to success."

Will Negotiate Direct.

"When peace negotiations are commenced it will be between Russia and Japan direct and not through any intermediary," was Minister Hayashi's comment when shown this dispatch. Minister Hayashi said he attached no importance to the statement, but believed that France was trying to influence Russia to open negotiations for peace.

"So far as I know," he added, "no negotiations have been begun, but when Russia is ready to make terms Japan will be happy to consider them."

Minister Hayashi repeated his previous statements that Japan is not noticing peace rumors, but steadily preparing to prosecute the war to the bitter end.

Ambassador Is Moved.

At Foreign Secretary Lansdowne's residence it was said it would be useless to ask Lord Lansdowne for an expression of opinion at the present juncture, as he must decline to give out any statement on the subject of peace.

Henry White was given a farewell reception by King Edward. Mr. White will leave England for Rome next week. It is said President Roosevelt is anxious that all the new ambassadors should be installed by the time peace negotiations are approaching conclusion.

Mr. White was the bearer of a letter to King Edward, but declined to state more than the bare fact.

CLEVER DODGE OF A WILY SAN DOMINGO PRESIDENT

Americans Are To Collect The Taxes Of The San Domingo Custom House.. To Await Action Of Senate.

Washington, March 29.—A plan has been devised by the president and his advisers to supervise the affairs of Santo Domingo, despite the fact that a formal treaty did not receive sanction of the United States senate. The plan is designated as a modus vivendi. It will cease to be effective when the senate finally acts on the Santo Domingo treaty.

The secretary of war will select and name American citizens, who will take charge of the custom-houses in Santo Domingo and collect the revenues. Forty-five per cent of the sums segregated will be turned over to the Santo Domingo government and the remaining 55 per cent deposited in a New York bank.

Morales to Ratify Appointments.

The American citizens named by Secretary Taft will be appointed by Santo Domingo and be the agents of that government. If the senate ratifies the pending treaty the money deposited in New York will be divided among the foreign creditors. If the treaty is rejected the money will be returned to the government of Santo Domingo.

The proposition for this arrangement is credited to President Morales, but it is believed Minister Dawson indicated just what would be acceptable to this government and President Morales framed his request to meet the suggestion.

The plan for adjusting the troublesome question was arranged after three conferences. Senators Lodge and Spooner were present at the first conference between the president at the White House, and the other Secretary Taft.

Is Approved by Cabinet.

The matter was afterward discussed at the cabinet meeting. Subsequently the president, Secretary Taft and Attorney General Moody drew up statements outlining the agreement reached and the affair was pronounced satisfactorily arranged.

Acting Secretary Adee sent Minister Dawson a telegram announcing the acceptance of President Morales' request.

No intimation has as yet been given as to what American citizens will be nominated as collectors of customs in Santo Domingo.

SENATE PASSES NOXIOUS BILLS

Anti-Cigarette Measure Becomes a Law When The Governor Signs The Bill.

OTHER LEGISLATION IS FINISHED

Senate Rushes Bills Through At A Breakneck Rate This Morning—Legislation That Is Important.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 29.—Senator Hudnall carried his point opposing the exemption of the old soldiers, by moving a call of the senate. The vote was 16 to 16, with Senator North absent. He was known to be opposed to the bill. Lieutenant Governor Davidson favors the bill and had the tie vote gone to him for his decision, the bill would be passed, but Hudnall insisted on North being sent for. He had to move a call of the house. North came in presently and voted against the bill, killing it. Senator Burns asked to change his vote from aye to no, so as to move a reconsideration of the bill tomorrow.

Senator Burns tried to get the anti-cigarette bill re-referred to the state affairs committee to determine its constitutionality but the motion was lost by a vote of 21 to 12. The bill then placed on final passage, was passed by a vote of 21 to 12.

The Debate

Another long debate took place today on the Fear bill to exempt old soldiers from taxation. Fear offered an amendment which was adopted to reduce exemption from $500 to $600. Hudnall made a strong constitutional argument showing that under the peddlers' license and other decisions the proposed law would not stand in the supreme court. He said that in order to be constitutional the old soldiers must be classed as paupers and he would not do that nor would veterans want it. Fear answered with the argument that taxes are not uniform and equal, quoting the Wisconsin Central railroad case in which the supreme court allowed exemption of property of this railroad to the exclusion of other roads and other property.

Assembly Bills

The assembly passed the H. Johnson bill to limit lobbyists to operation in open committee rooms. It also passed the Warner bill to appropriate $1,000 to Edward E. Sater, an electrician injured in Capitol park. It advanced the bill for registration of the cheese and butter manufacturers and for a state inspection of dairy products in warehouses and curing rooms.

BEET WORKERS IN FOR THE SUMMER

Eighty Russian-Germans Will Be Employed in Rock County During the Coming Season.

Thirty German Russians arrived in the city last evening to be distributed about the county among the farmers growing sugar-beets. A little later fifty more will arrive, making the total to be distributed eighty for Rock county farmers alone. These German-Russian are natives of the sugar-beet country of Europe and have worked in the beet fields all their lives. They have most of them been in this country four or five years and were brought to Janesville by Agricultural Myers of the Rock County Sugar company at the request of beet-growers. Last season they worked at Riverdale, Illinois. They will be sent to the different parts of the county for the work in the fields and will board themselves. They spent most of this morning about the city laying in supplies and cooking utensils.

LONG WALK FOR TWO BELOIT YOUNGSTERS

Who Came Here Last Night to "See the Show," But Were Not Provided for Home Trip.

Ambrose Cleary and James Howard, aged 12 and 13 years, came to Janesville from Beloit last evening to "see the show." Apparently they made the journey without the fare, thought to provide themselves with the necessary money to buy return trip tickets over the interurban. Possibly they may have thoughtlessly expended the cash after they arrived. At any rate they were found wandering aimlessly on the streets about 3 a. m. and taken to the city hall basement by the police. This morning they were given a breakfast and started off on a long walk to Beloit.

Savage is badly hurt internally.

OFFICE BUILDING STYLE TALKED OF

New Capitol Would Be on the Latest Modern Lines Possible.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis.—To build a modern steel frame skyscraper office building for a state capital instead of following the Grecian style of monumental architecture so universal in public buildings is the proposition which is being aggressively urged as the wisest settlement of the vexing Wisconsin capitol problem. The advocates of this plan admit that it is a bold thing to ask that all the traditions of public architecture be abandoned, particularly in a place where there is no necessity for economy of ground room, the site here being nearly 14 acres, but they say Grecian monumental architecture has not progressed and developed as has the modern office building architecture, and the latter style is the most practical and economical. It is argued that for a maximum cost of $2,000,000 a steel frame building of 12 stories can be erected that will be more adequate for the practical purposes of a home for the state government than a $6,000,000 mass of pillars and corridors and classic architecture. There is a suggestion connected with this movement that Governor La Follette is not unfavorable to it.

WHAT IS DONE AT THE CANAL ZONE

MISS HUMPHREY SENDS REPORT OF ENGINEER IN CHARGE.

WHAT THE WORK REALLY IS

Delays at Present Mean Certainty in the End—Gigantic Work Being Accomplished.

(From Mary Humphrey) Colon, Canal Zone, March 15, '05. Work is now getting everywhere in the Canal Zone. One feels as if something was being accomplished. I hope to visit Culebra Cut in the near future and will write concerning it after my visit.

Following is given an article written by Chief Engineer Wallace on the construction of the canal. It appeared in the "Star and Herald," the daily paper published at Panama, Republic of Panama, March 12.

The function of the former Isthmian Canal Commission was to determine the most advantageous of the several routes for an isthmian canal.

The most prominent among the various routes considered were Nicaragua and Panama.

The physical condition at Nicaragua necessitated the use of Lake Nicaragua at the summit level, it being approximately one hundred feet above sea level.

The level of Lake Nicaragua naturally controlled the elevation of the summit level of a canal on this route. The construction of a canal at lower elevation, or a sea level canal, at Nicaragua, was self-evidently inadvisable and impracticable.

It was apparent that in order to make a fair comparison between the two routes, the plan for a canal at Panama should include as near as possible the same characteristics and be subject to the same conditions as existed at Nicaragua. Hence, the necessity for the condition of a plan based on a level of ninety feet at Panama and providing for an artificial lake, is apparent.

This resulted in the plan recommended by the former commission, a fundamental factor being the Bohio dam creating this artificial lake.

The Chagres River Incidentally the Chagres river was an important factor, as it rendered possible the creation of this artificial lake on the summit level of the canal. This lake formed the means of solving the problem as to the control of the Chagres river.

The essential feature of this plan consisted of a dam at Bohio, with its crest ninety feet above sea level, the natural gap through the saddle at the headwaters of the Gilaite, three miles away from the site of the dam, providing an ideal arrangement for the necessary spillway to maintain the normal surface of the water in Lake Bohio ten feet below the crest of this dam, it being calculated that the margin between the level of the water at ninety feet and the crest of the dam at one hundred feet would provide a reservoir in Lake Bohio which would take care of the greatest floods ever known to pour down the Chagres valley.

Gigant Spillway

The situation of the Gigant spillway was ideal, being three miles from the site of the dam, and enabling the surplus water of the lake in times of flood, to enter the sea through a series of swamps without any entering or interfering with the canal below Bohio, a slight levee on the western side of the canal being sufficient to keep the over-flow waters out of the actual canal channel, this levee also taking care of the water which would enter the original valley of the Chagres below Bohio; a series of drainage ditches and river diversions being planned to be constructed to intercept the drainage entering the valley of the Chagres from the eastward, this drainage being collected by these various drainage channels and diverted into Manzanillo Bay east of Colon.

The present commission, however, are untrammelled by the recommendations of the former commission, and are free to determine the most economical and efficient plan for the construction of a canal along the general route between Colon and Panama, so long as the ultimate cost and time of completion does not materially exceed estimates of cost and time recommended by the former commission, and which constituted the basic information upon which the American Congress passed what is known as the "Spooner Act" authorizing the construction of the Panama Canal and creating the present commission.

The Work Begun

On June 1, 1904, the present chief engineer entered the service of the Isthmian Canal Commission, and after a few days' conference with the commission at Washington and in preparation for his departure for the country sailed from New York on June 21st, arriving on the Isthmus on June 26th, and on July 1st assumed charge of the work as chief engineer.

He found a force at work in the summit cut at Culebra under the immediate charge of Mr. A. C. Warner, the assistant of Colonel W. M. Black, U. S. Corps of Engineers, Colonel Black having been stationed on the Isthmus for a year previous to this time as the representative of the Isthmian canal commission, observing the French methods and supervising the transfer of the property to the United States.

The force employed at Culebra showed about seven hundred names on the pay roll. This number of men was necessary to provide a daily working force of approximately five hundred, and included French engineers and superintendents in charge of the work, the larger part of the force, not only laborers but mechanics, artisans and the clerical staff, being Jamaica negroes.

More a Theory

For years the work at Culebra had been conducted on the theory of the minimum amount of expenditure to retain control and possession of the franchise, and previous to turning it over to the United States approximately twenty-five thousand cubic yards of material per month were being excavated, this amount varying from month to month, and the quantities being determined by the number of cars of materials excavated and removed, the measurements of the quantities however, being more or less approximate. As the cars were irregularly loaded, the contents of each car was determined by the visual inspection of men employed for this purpose.

The lowest point to which the summit cut had been excavated at that time was approximately one hundred and fifty feet above sea level, the work being conducted on the basis of a canal with an elevation of one hundred and twenty feet above the level of the sea.

Any plan which may be determined upon at a lower elevation than one hundred and twenty feet, naturally necessitates the widening of the original excavation.

The Problems As the most important and fundamental problem connected with the construction of the Panama canal is the excavation and removal of the material from this central section through the Continental divide, the cost and time of removing the material from this section is not only the controlling problem in the construction of the canal but is the factor which will ultimately determine not only the time of completion but the cost of the work, regardless of any plan which may hereafter be adopted.

All other portions of the work, all other problems, even the control of the Chagres river, are subordinate to this principal feature, and can be easily solved and completed within the limit of time required for the construction of this central section through the Continental divide.

The French machinery found on the Isthmus, consisting of locomotives, dump cars and excavators, has been utilized as far as possible. This is now being supplemented by modern American machinery as fast as it can be designed, constructed, and installed.

Actual Work

On January 1st the machinery actually at work at Culebra cut consisted of two French excavators and two modern American steam shovels, with the tracks, cars and locomotives necessary for the disposal of the excavated material; the force having been increased from approximately five hundred men in July to twelve hundred men on the 31st of December, actually at work.

Eleven additional American steam shovels have been contracted for and are now being delivered, erected and installed. The installation of other equipment will proceed as fast as the force can be enlarged and the necessary tracks and other arrangements made for the disposal of the excavated material. After the present method of operation has been continued, a reasonable length of time, sufficient data will be accumulated to enable the commission to determine definitely the number of excavating units which can be operated, the cost per cubic yard of the removal of the excavated material and the capacity of each excavating unit.

Records of Borings When this information is at hand, not until then, the present commission will be in possession of the data necessary to determine the approximate length of time required to complete the Culebra section through the Continental divide, and the cost thereof; and as this is the controlling feature of the work, the data obtained; and as this is the controlling factor in the determination of the final plan to be adopted.

In the meantime the cost and the treatment of all the subordinate problems—the control of the Chagres river; the construction of harbor facilities at Panama and Colon; water supply and sewerage systems for the various systems and towns along the line; electric power plant to generate current for the operation of machinery, the Panama railroad, and all other incidental features of the problem can be estimated and determined upon.

Records of borings have been found in the archives of the French engineers at Panama, giving general data as to the character of the formation to the level of the sea. While the terms used in describing the various strata passed through might be in a measure unintelligible to the American, still when they have been interpreted by the 150 feet of excavation already made under the auspices of the French at Culebra cut, and after a careful comparison has been made between the material already exposed and the original borings taken by the French engineers, and the interpretation applied to the record of the borings beneath the present surface, a fair idea of the general geological formation and the difficulties to be encountered in the excavation can be determined with reasonable certainty. In the meantime, additional borings with a diamond drill are being taken along the axis of the canal.

In the short space of time that the work has been under the control of the Isthmian Canal Commission, with the old machinery found on the Isthmus and with the imperfect organization existing, it has been demonstrated that the cost of excavation of the central Culebra section will not exceed fifty cents per cubic yard from the estimate of the former commission as the average cost of excavating this material.

Much Care Taken

In obtaining these figures care has been taken that the proportion of difficult work should be equal to, if not in excess of the proportion that will probably be found in the remainder of the excavation.

How much further this cost can be reduced by the use of modern machinery and the application of American methods is yet to be determined.

Very Important

The importance of the work already done should not be measured by the actual quantity of material excavated, but by the lowest unit price per cubic yard of excavation, the quantity which can be moved per excavating machine, and the number of excavating machines that can be installed, which, as stated before, will furnish the data for the determination of the questions of cost and time.

As an illustration of the importance of this method, it may be stated that the results already obtained would show a saving of fifteen millions of dollars in the cost of the work in the central Culebra section, which is approximately eight to ten miles long, on the basis of a canal ninety feet above the level of the sea.

Should the sea level plan hereafter be adopted, this saving would amount approximately to thirty millions of dollars as applied to the same section, the saving on intermediate levels being proportionate.

Sea Level Canal

While it is self-evident that a sea level canal would be preferable, on account of the simplicity of the problems connected with its construction, maintenance, operation and use, and it could be widened and deepened without interference with traffic and would permit the transit of vessels through it, the shortest possible time, still the questions of time and cost are factors to be seriously considered.

The decision as to the final plan should be made by the American people, as presented by their congress, which body should take the responsibility therefore and should be the one to decide this great question, after having been duly advised of all the elements which enter the problem, through the Isthmian Canal Commissioners and the expert engineers constituting its membership, assisted by such other professional advice as it may consider necessary to employ.

This greater problem is one which the chief engineer is not called upon to decide, and upon which he has expressed no official opinion, whether in regard to time or cost, this public press to the contrary notwithstanding.

All estimates as to time and cost referred to by the chief engineer before the congressional committee or others, have been based upon the figures contained in the published reports of the former Isthmian Canal Commission.

Chief Engineers

The province of the chief engineer is to conduct technical studies and obtain all possible data, and to formulate the various plans under consideration and submit the same to the Isthmian Canal Commission, to whom the reports; and while it is his privilege and duty to accompany his reports with such comments and recommendations as he may consider advisable, the selection of the final plan remains primarily with the commission and ultimately with the American Congress.

The responsibility for the economical and efficient execution of such plans rests with the chief engineer.

It is self-evident, however, that the plan with the fewest locks and dams will be the best. As a general principle, the canal with the simplest form, the lowest elevation, and the greatest utility, is the most desirable.

Economical Plan

Other things being equal, the most economical plan would be one in which the interest of the cost of construction plus the cost of maintenance and operation, is the lowest, considered in connection with a canal which will admit of the quickest passage of vessels through it, and which can be enlarged either in width or depth with the least possible expense and with the least disturbance of traffic.

In the study of this subject, preconceived theories should not be permitted to affect the final plan adopted.

Time should be given the commission and the chief engineer to thoroughly study and consider all the facts surrounding the problem.

Preconceived Ideas

If this is done, many preconceived ideas and theories will be eliminated by the logic of facts. It should not be forgotten that ignorance and self-interest separately or in combination are the parents of controversy, and if this problem is studied in the full sunlight of midday, with complete knowledge of all the facts and conditions surrounding the problem, there will be small ground for differences of opinion.

And it is to be hoped that the American people will not be impatient in granting the Commission and its chief engineer such time as may be necessary to bring this happy result.

It would not seem unreasonable to take even two years in the careful preparation of a design for this great work, which it has taken five hundred years to conceive in the womb of civilization, and which it is to be hoped will benefit mankind a thousand years hence.

SMOKING A CIGAR.

Curious Bet That Shows an Impossible Way of Smoking.

"I have a customer who thinks he smokes twenty Wadsworth Bros. Cigars a day," said Mr. Ed. Smith of the Smith Drug Co. "As a matter of fact he gives away a good many, but is firm in his belief that he smokes more cigars than any man in Janesville." He says he is willing to bet that no man can smoke even one cigar continually until it is consumed without taking it from his lips, and he has won a good many boxes of Cigars on this simple bet.

Of course this man's trade keeps up buying Cigars right along, but aside from what we sell him, Cigars have the largest sale of any cigar in our case. "We warrant it clear Havana filler, and although it sells for five cents it is equal to any ten cent cigar. We cannot recommend it too highly."

DATE IS FIXED FOR THE DEBATE

TO BE HELD AT WAUKESHA ON APRIL 28.

OTHER ARRANGEMENTS MADE

Janesville Speakers Are Working Faithfully and Hard—Much Interest Is Aroused.

Friday evening, April 28, has been set for the date of the Waukesha-Janesville inter-high school debate, which is to be held in Waukesha, and final arrangements are now being made. A great deal of interest has been aroused in the debate and it is probable that a number of the members of the Rustic Lyceum and Forum debating societies will accompany the team. The Waukesha debating club has agreed to entertain the Janesville young men of these organizations in their homes. It is also possible that a special train may be run there at about six in the evening and back the same night, but no definite move has been made in this direction by the suggestors.

Much Preparation

The Janesville speakers have been putting forth heroic efforts to secure all the useful material available and have studied not only labor questions that are national but also local, the subject of the discussion being: "Resolved, That the closed shop policy as advocated by the trades' unions is justifiable." The members of the team have found not only many arguments and existing conditions that will aid them in upholding the negative side, which they selected, but also have procured opinions and statements from famous and influential men of the industrial world.

Vacation Utilized

About all the arguments that can be found have been collected now and this week of vacation is being spent in arranging the plan of attack and the outline of the speeches. Immediately after the recommendation of school next Monday, when the general outline has been approved by Superintendent Buell and Mr. Bartlett, who is coaching the team, the speakers will commence to compose, as far as possible, their addresses. The team is comprised of Harvey Briley, who, receiving the highest mark in the tryout, was chosen leader, Orville Swift and Paul Porter.

Hour for Each Side

Mr. Buell, acting for the Janesville debaters, and Superintendent Terry of the Waukesha high school, for the representatives of that school, have agreed that each side shall be allowed sixty minutes, instead of the usual fifty-five, in which time the three discussions and the rebuttal must be contained. No one speaker can use more than twenty-two minutes of the hour allotted his side, except the leader of the affirmative who is given the privilege of twenty-two minutes for his discussion and five minutes for rebuttal. With this one regularity the teams may divide their hour among the team members as they wish.

Selection of Jurors

The selection of judges for the contest will be made in the following manner: Each school will submit a sealed list of ten names of men who would be satisfactory as jurors. If a name appears on both lists that person will be asked to act as judge, but if both lists contain an entirely different set of names, each school will pick one from the other's list and the third juror will be specially agreed upon by Superintendents Terry and Buell.

REUNION OF FORMER MEMBERS MAY TAKE PLACE OF BANQUET

Committee Appointed in Rustic Lyceum to Endeavor to Secure Roll of Ex-Members.

Upon the suggestion of a former member of the Rustic Lyceum that a reunion of those who, during their high school career belonged to the society, be held this summer, a committee was appointed by President Bailey which is instructed to endeavor to secure a roll of all those who have been members of the society since its organization over a decade ago. This committee is constituted of Lester Strang, Floyd Davis and Robert Jensen. If the idea can be followed out, the annual banquet, usually held early in June, will be dispensed with this year and the reunion held.

JUNIOR CLASS DESIRES TO HOLD EITHER PICNIC OR BANQUET THIS YEAR

By a vote of the class at a recent meeting, the juniors of the high school decided to hold either a picnic or banquet some time before the close of school. It is rather late in the season for the latter kind of celebration and a picnic seems to be more generally favored. A committee, composed of Earl Brown, Corn Hott and Orville Swift, was appointed to make an investigation of the two ideas and report on their conclusions at an early date.

GOOD PERFORMANCE AT MYERS' GRAND

"A Break for Liberty" Was Well Received Last Evening—"East Lynne" the Bill for Tonight.

Interpersed with a goodly amount of comedy and played in a capable manner by the Lyceum Stock company, "A Break for Liberty" proved a very entertaining piece at the Myers Grand last evening. The play is a melodrama of interest which has to do with the capture of a forger and release of an innocent young man, Marion March, as "Lila Redrose" proved herself an artist above the ordinary. Vivian Naffziger, Al S. Evans, Elmer Hunter, Arthur S. Ide, and Marion March in their specialty acts were highly pleasing and forced to respond to encore. The company is playing "Rip Van Winkle" this afternoon, and tonight will produce "East Lynne" in which Miss March will wear some elaborate costumes.

LETTER FROM THE SCOTTISH SHORES

Mr. and Mrs. Honeysett Write of Their Trip to the British Isles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Honeysett, who recently wrote to the Gazette concerning their holiday in the British Isles have written more concerning their celebration there and of the trip which they are taking. Following is the letter:

"In our last letter we wrote about to start for Scotland, where we have spent nine weeks of our holiday and have just returned.

With so many recollections of earlier years and meeting with so many old friends, school-mates etc., Mr. Honeysett—it need hardly be said—enjoyed the visit to Bonnie Scotland to the full, indeed we both did.

The first place we touched was Dumfries—a flourishing little town of 18,000 inhabitants closely associated with the immortal "Robbie Burns" whose fine monument we viewed, we also saw many interesting relics. From here we journeyed to Dunrobin, a village in the same county, in the neighborhood of which our friends visited—here among the chad hills, we made our headquarters, the house we stayed at was built in the 16th century, the walls being four feet in thickness—quite an historic old place, herding and sheep raising etc., seems to be the main occupation here, a quiet country place, but not dull by any means. In the next county, viz: Kirkcubright, we were on our native heath, spending a few days in the Galkhouse of Plect, a pretty situated, sleepy little town—at one time as busy as a beehive, when its mills were working. These have been closed for many years, owing to the introduction of modern machinery. In the immediate neighborhood is the monument erected to the memory of dear old Samuel Rutherford of Covenantary fame, not far from the Little Kirk Anwoth—where he ministered long and faithfully. A few miles along the shore Mrs. Honeysett discovered the cottage where she was born; the occupant very kindly granting us permission to go through. This part of the country—that is the extreme south of Scotland—is famous as the "Raiders" country, immortalized in many of the works of S. R. Crockett, the well-known novelist. Space will not permit us to speak of all interesting places visited, nor to attempt referring to the beautiful scenery of the country, which has been described in song and story by here poets, and deserves all the praise they have lavished upon it. Altogether we have enjoyed our holiday immensely and feel that we have been amply repaid for our long journey. We shall long retain many pleasant recollections of our stay in "The Old Country" of the kindnesses received from everyone and the friendships we have made and renewed—all of which has contributed to render this holiday one of our most delightful experiences.

Yet without—we are looking forward to returning home. I hope to leave here on March 28th by the steamship "Ivanhoe," one of the splendid lines of the Cunard fleet."

PLOWING HAS COMMENCED IN TOWN OF LA PRAIRIE

And Barefoot Boys With Checks of Tan Are Hoping About, According to Charles Kemmerer.

Charles Kemmerer, returning from a tour of the town of La Prairie last evening, stated that spring plowing had commenced in earnest in that section of the country. He also reports seeing several barefoot boys. All of which proves that winter has passed and spring is here.

For an early breakfast nothing is quite so fine as Mrs. Austin's famous Buckwheat. So good you always want more.

The Pennsylvania senate passed the bill providing for the annexation of Allegheny City to Pittsburgh.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE.

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics" Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food properly digested. There is no other way and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous and on a par with the old-dog that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy, that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and, unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure stomach trouble by the use of "tonics," "pills" and "cathartics" which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass bottle at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets, because it is not only the sick and ailing, but well people who use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well, prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

AMERICAN EDUCATION IN THE PHILIPPINES.

As the work stands today in the Philippines, we are educating 200,000 boys and girls in the public day schools, young men and young women, old men and old women (some sixty years of age) in the public night schools. There are thirty provincial high schools with 20,000 young men and young women pupils; most of them are preparing for places as teachers in the public schools. In the city of Manila there is an insular normal school for teachers, with an enrollment of 600; an insular trade school to teach the industrial arts, with an attendance of 500, and a nautical school with a membership of 200 young men.

All this great educational work is cared for by thirty-five American superintendents, 900 American teachers, and about 3,000 native teachers, all of them using the English language as the medium of instruction. This policy of teaching in English is sound because the Christian Filipinos (6,500,000 of them) are bright and pick up a language quicker than the American teachers could learn Spanish. Ex-General Superintendents of Education Bryan and Atkinson both testify to that fact. Said Mr. Bryan at the Lake Mohawk conference last October: "In a few months Filipinos can recite in the English language, and after three and a half years of this work in the schools, more Filipino people can talk the English language than were able to speak the Spanish language after a Spanish occupation of more than three centuries. Three hundred thousand people in the Philippine archipelago today are able to converse more or less intelligently in the English language." That is a real substantial gain of only six years American occupation, with the first three years disturbed by insurrections.

Mr. Bryan is of the opinion that the Philippines excel in all work that is based on memory or imitation, such as music, rudiments of a language, rudiments of art work, drawing, mechanics, etc., but that they are not equal to American children in those lines of school work that are based upon reasoning, upon consecutive, logical thinking.

At the head of our educational work in the Philippines stand two men peculiarly fitted for the positions they occupy. Dr. David P. Barrows, an alumnus of the University of California, who took his doctor's degree at the University of Chicago, a scholarly gentleman, a man who knows more about the Philippine people probably than any other American, is the present general superintendent of education. For a time he was chief of the Philippine Bureau of Ethnology, the superintendent of the schools of the city of Manila. He knows more about the needs of the people, because he has visited more Philippine towns than any other American. The other man is General James F. Smith, secretary of public instruction. He served as brigadier-general in the Philippines, then collector of customs for the port of Manila, and as a member of the supreme court. There is one advantage which he possesses and which, naturally, endears him to the Filipinos. He is a member of the church to which ninety-eight per cent of them belong. He knows the people, sympathizes with them, and believes in them as a childlike people.

That is our educational outfit in the Philippines today, and it is a good one. It is headed by an American soldier, and was begun by American soldiers when, in the very first days of American occupancy, they privates at that, nailed sheets of paper to the trees, and began to teach the people that hand in hand with American occupation went American effort to instruct and elevate.

VOTING MACHINES.

The question of voting machines had been discussed for a year or so before their purchase. They will pay for themselves in a few years because of the saving in the cost of the elections. They were paid for outright by the city, because, under our charter we could not buy them on the installment plan. By the installment plan the same amount would have been paid plus the interest on the amount unpaid at the rate of six per cent. The Finance Committee, of which Mr. Matheson was chairman, reported in favor of the purchase of only two machines, one for a ward on each side of the river, in order to try the machines and distribute the total expense over two or three years. A majority of the council refused to adopt this recommendation, and ordered five machines instead of two.

RACINE STREET BRIDGE.

Some questions have been asked concerning the bonds for a new bridge at Racine street. There is some misunderstanding to the effect that the council have already voted for a new bridge. All that has been done thus far is to submit the question to the vote of the people at the coming election. A bridge at Racine street has been talked about for a number of years. A number of Mr. Matheson's constituents in the Third Ward want such a bridge. A resolution was therefore introduced and carried in the council, not to purchase a new bridge, but to let the people vote upon the proposition and determine it for themselves.

PRESS COMMENT.

Oshkosh Northwestern: It was certainly a fair test of the new primary law, and with a few minor exceptions it seemed to work all right.

Milwaukee News: There is one marked advantage that Mr. Roosevelt has over the senate. He never adjourns.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Premier Laurier thanks heaven he was born in Canada instead of the United States. The smaller puddle for him.

Chicago Record-Herald: Castro seems to think his big stick is the biggest there is. And since the senate tied a string to Roosevelt's stick Castro may be more or less right.

Evening Wisconsin: Canada's proposition to fence the boundary, so that the American cattlemen will have to keep off the grass, ought to create a boom in barbed wire and fence posts.

Green Bay Gazette: Many American newspapers are sounding the alarm that Japan wants the Philippines. Well, let it have them, they are not of much use to the United States, anyway.

Racine Journal: Let us try this primary law precisely as it is for at least a couple of city elections and general election. Pass up all amendments until the people can see what they really want.

Washington Times: Objection is made by a New York woman to $3 a week alimony on the plea that the sum is not enough to keep her in violets. However, if she will switch from violets to ham sandwiches she will find the money useful.

Pond du Lac Reporter: Mayor Born of Sheboygan has found a sulphur spring in his cellar. If the discovery had been made a few days later his defeat for re-election as mayor might account for the sulphur with which the water is impregnated.

Chicago Tribune: Now you understand why spirit messages are so commonplace. It is, because they have to be suited to the comprehension of the audiences. The audience will see the necessity of making themselves smaller and more select hereafter.

Cincinnati Enquirer: You can hear most anything these days. Let nothing surprise you. It is now said that Oyama has been winning all this time because he was married to a graduate of Vassar college. We shall presently hear that she is the real general. These are times of opportunity for women.

La Crosse Leader-Press: The appointment of Congressman Babcock as national committeeman shows the stalwart influence to be still supreme at Washington, despite the fact that the president has taken up the La Follette issues as his own. It will be interesting to note whether there is to be a change in conditions when Mr. La Follette goes to Washington.

APRIL'S OFFERINGS
AT MYERS THEATRE

Raymond Hitchcock in "The Yankee Consul," "His Highness the Bey," and Other Good Ones Coming.

Offerings at the Myers theatre during the month of April will be unusually attractive. It will be the best month of the season, thus far, in the number of first-class attractions booked. The Dodge-Bowman repertoire company will hold the boards on the 2d and 4th and on Thursday evening, April 6, "A Fool and His Money," the American comedy in four acts presented by Jameson Lee Finney under Frohman management last year. Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is to be here on Saturday, the 8th, and on Monday evening, the 10th, Raymond Hitchcock, the original "King Dodo," and the original company which has been playing in the Studebaker, Chicago, will appear in the musical-comedy success, "The Yankee Consul." This big attraction will be followed on the very next evening by another of equal magnitude, "His Highness the Bey," the La-Salle theatre success and successor to "The Royal Chef," with Al Sheehan the original in the name-part, and the same company which has been enjoying a three months' run in Chicago. Creators and his wonderful Italian band, which pleased two big audiences last year, are booked for Thursday, April 13. On Saturday, the 15th, Howe's moving pictures will be shown both afternoon and evening, and on Tuesday, the 18th, John and Emma Ray will appear in their latest success, "Down the Pike." The Rays formerly lived in Janesville and are now among the most prominent people in the theatrical world. They have one of the biggest attractions on the road and are pleasing big audiences at the Great Northern, Chicago, at present. Charles H. Yale's company in "The Ways of the Transgressor" appears on the 19th, and Barlow's minstrels on the 20th. On Saturday, the 22d, Frank L. Perley's company in the musical-comedy "The Girl and the Bandit" will come from a long run at the Studebaker and on Tuesday, the 25th, the melodrama "For Her Sake" has been secured. "The Old Clothes Man," a comedy on the order of Dave Warfield's "The Auctioneer," with a rising young actor from the Thuanhaner Stock Co. of Milwaukee in the leading role, is booked for Friday, April 23.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO., CHICAGO.

MUST DESTROY
ALL CIGAR BOXES

Internal Revenue Officers Will Begin a Crusade on All Cities After May 1st.

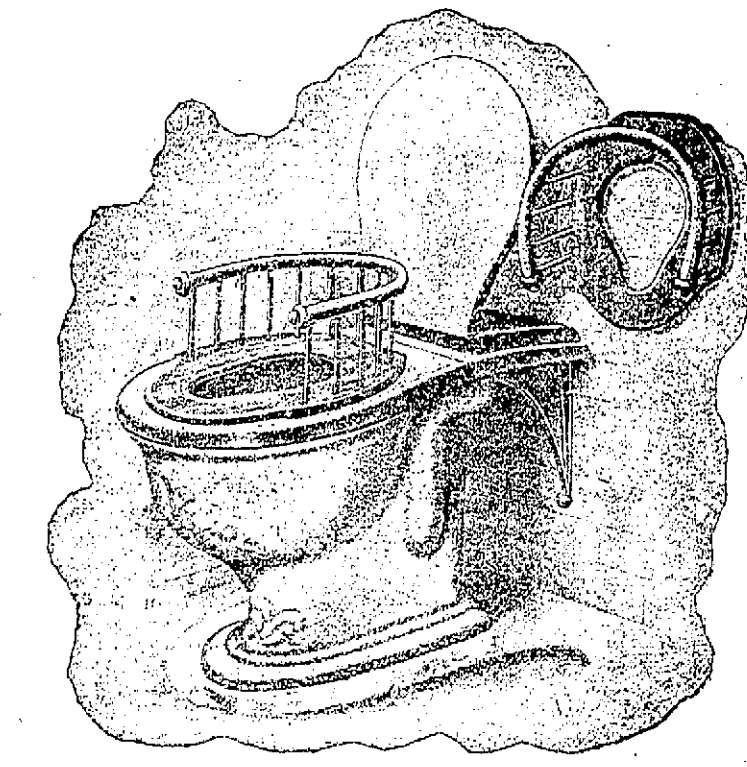

If the Janesville merchants who handle tobacco do not comply with the new regulations which the internal revenue officers have received from Washington, to the effect that all empty cigar boxes must hereafter be destroyed, they will be liable to a fine. The order was in response to many requests for a ruling on the statute providing for the destruction of cigar boxes, and will go away with the practice of using "empties" to fill shelves in cigar-stores and drug-gists' establishments. According to the ruling, empty boxes cannot be used for decorations, if they have trade-marks, labels, or other similar marks upon them. Under the terms of the order, internal revenue officers on May 1, will begin a movement against the use of "empties" for decorative purposes. The punishment is a fine of from $50 to $500.

MEET TONIGHT TO DISCUSS PROJECT

Those Interested in the Proposed Chautauqua Are to Hold Meeting.

This evening at half-past eight a meeting of those interested in holding a Chautauqua in Janesville are to meet in the parlors of the Myers house to discuss the plans. Mr. Holbrook will explain his project at that time and the feasibility of organizing a Chautauqua association will be discussed. The proposition is still undecided but steps have already been taken to secure permission to hold the gathering on the grounds desired, street-car facilities discussed and the preliminary work accomplished.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Since 1882 France has spent $90,000,000 in cutting canals from the large rivers to the leading cities and in canalizing rivers, and an additional expenditure of $70,000,000 for the same object is planned. Germany now has 9,000 miles of navigable, inland waters. In the last thirty years France has allotted $100,000,000 to the construction of canals free from tolls, and proposes to spend $110,000,000 in the same manner. With 3,000 miles of canals and 7,000 miles of navigable rivers, many of which are canalized, France still calls for more canals.

KICKERS' KOLUM HAS COMPLAINTS

WEEKLY GRIST OF KICKS UPON TIMELY SUBJECTS.

MATTERS TO BE REMEDIED

Some General Gossip as to the Bower City in Particular.

Kicker's Kolum Editor: It is my opinion that if the game wardens, paid by the state of Wisconsin were doing their duty, a few people would be fined now a days for shooting ducks and a goodly sized sum of money could be paid into the school fund. I know that in the past week a number of hunters have been bagging game down in the marsh at the lower end of the city and also at other places in southern Wisconsin. What is the use of prohibiting spring shooting if the present laws cannot be enforced?

"LAW-ABIDING HUNTER." To the Editor: The idea set forth in last evening's Gazette that a Chautauqua be held here is a good one. In my mind, however, the association who takes charge of it should be composed of business-men who thoroughly understand the work.

"A LAYMAN." To the Editor: Where is the health officer and his spring cleaning. The city needs his care?

"A TRANSCIENT." N. B.—"Transcient" is asked to read the orders of the health officer published in last evening's Gazette.

To the Editor: Why do the residents along the river-bank wait for the river to rise each spring before they take steps to protect their property? Would not a good river wall along the whole of the course of the stream through the city do much to protect the valuable property that is in danger each spring?

"RIVER FLOATER."

To the Editor: So much has been said at the present time as to Mr. Matheson as alderman from the third ward, having tried to saddle the city with the debt of the new Racine street bridge, that I would like to have the Gazette find space to print the following extract on bridges from Mayor Hutchinson's opening speech to the council after his election a year ago. If anyone is to be blamed it is not Mr. Matheson:

Bridges

"The several bridges in the city are in fairly good condition, except Court street bridge, for which a contract has been let for a new bridge at that point, and, in all probabilities, it will be completed and ready for travel early in the fall. As was suggested in the message of my predecessor, I deem it of very much importance to the city that, at a very early date, steps should be taken for the construction of a new bridge at Racine street. In order to construct a bridge at this point, I am informed that it will be necessary to submit the proposition to the electors, whether or not a special tax shall be levied for such purpose. As the city will either have to acquire some land on the west side of the river, in case such bridge is constructed, by condemnation proceedings or purchase, I would recommend that this council, at its earliest opportunity, take such action as may be necessary so that the question of building a bridge at this point can be submitted at the next charter election."

JOHN H. NICHOLSON SPEAKS IN BOSTON

Janesville Man Addresses the Gideons, of Which He is National President—"Like Sam Jones."

John H. Nicholson of this city, national president of The Gideons, addressed a mass-meeting of the organization in Lorimer hall, Tremont temple, Boston, Sunday afternoon. The Boston Globe of Monday in commenting on the meeting says: "The Gideons is a commercial travelers' Christian association which was organized five years ago and which now has a membership of some 5000 all over the country. There were some 700 at yesterday's meeting and among them a difficult or bashful one among them when it came to standing up and giving a testimonial of experience. There was unusual vim and dash in the singing of the hymns as well as in the testimonials. The Gideons are fortunate in their president. He is a man of rare personality: not unlike 'Sam' Jones in some of his characteristics—tall and rather thin, clear cut, a good story-teller, responsive to everything that is said, good natured, full of movement and a man with a rarely sympathetic voice and manner." A resume of his address follows.

SOME FACTORIES START THE PUMPS

HIGH WATER STAGE OF ROCK RIVER CAUSES UNEASINESS.

JOHN WATSON SHIPWRECKED

Street Commissioner Had Harrowing Experience at Milwaukee St. Bridge This Morning.

Last night carpenters took up the bowing alleys in Leffingwell's place on South Main street to get them out of reach of the rising Rock. While all hands were not ordered to the pumps at the Janesville Machine Co.'s plant, two of the latter were put in place and started on night and day shifts in the basement. The Riverside laundry was compelled to stop its machinery on the lower floor, with the exception of the engine, today, and send considerable of its unfinished work to Beloit. The Smith Drug Co.'s basement is flooded and J. M. Ryan on North Main street has been compelled to remove a considerable quantity of his leaf tobacco to a place of safety. Many of the basements on South River street have ponds several inches deep.

Expect It to Run Higher

According to measurements made at the Monterey railroad bridge this morning the river is just four inches below its highest mark of last year. Measurements in the rear of the Hockett bowling alleys show it to be 4 1/2 inches below last spring's mark. There is said to be considerable snow in the vicinity of Watertown and Jefferson yet and as soon as the big break-up to Lake Koshkonong comes it is anticipated that the river will run much higher. Some predict that the city will see ten miles of broken ice carried down to the Illinois state line. Portions of the Monterey dam are being washed away. The repair work made last season is reported to be holding very well. The Northwestern switch-trucks on South River street are under water in places.

Street Commissioner's Escape

About nine o'clock this morning Street Commissioner John H. Watson launched a small shallop in the swirling current near the Milwaukee street bridge and set forth upon a voyage to examine the underpinning of that structure. As the intrepid navigator neared the piles which hold up the superstructure he lost control of the boat and seized hold of the scaffolding just as the boat was swept out from under him and down towards Beloit. He climbed to a place of safety and escaped without injury. At the upper bridge Carl Merrill saw an empty row-boat coming down stream and as it passed under on its merry way toward the dam, leaped aboard and succeeded in piloting it to the shore. It was the property of Will Peterson. James A. Fathers who returned from a trip to Lake Koshkonong today, says that the Granger property and that of the Fun Hunters of Whitewater on the east shore were badly damaged by the ice shove. The great ice-cakes are piled up to a height of fifteen or twenty feet.

ARE HATCHING OUT WILD DUCKS

Rhinelanders Sportsmen Have Incubators Working at a Very Novel Job.

Janesville hunters are much interested in the fact that thousands of wild ducks are being hatched in incubators by the Rhineland Game Protective association. The system, said to be without precedent among sportsmen, is working with much satisfaction and the sportsmen in the association are planning to secure an appropriation from the state of Wisconsin for a state wild duck hatchery, to be conducted on lines similar to those now employed in hatching fish.

A New Kind of Hatchery

Wisconsin is noted for its fish hatcheries; it may soon become noted for wild duck hatcheries, and even these may be succeeded in their place at the head of the list by other kinds of hatcheries. At present the incubators are located on the hundreds of pleasure craft—gasoline, electric and other kinds of launches in the numerous lakes of the vicinity of Rhineland. This adds interest to the procedure.

Incubators Rock in Waves

While the little boats rock gently or wildly in the water, as the weather demands, there are hundreds upon hundreds of wild ducklings more or less ready on board in warm, comfortable incubators, waiting to break through the shells of the eggs laid by their perhaps now very distant parents. One early feature of the work planned and carried out by the Rhineland association was to sow wild rice in the lakes thereabouts. This attracted many canvasback, red-head and mallard ducks. No shooting has been permitted by members of the association for several years.

Rhinelanders Men Unselfish

However, the Rhinelanders sportsmen are not selfish. They are crating and shipping the little ducklings to all parts of the state, as they are asked for by less fortunate and ingenious sportsmen of other localities.

WAUSAUKEE OFFERS JANESVILLE A HINT

Comfort From Northern Pine Stumps for Our Disgruntled Election Officials.

Away up among the pine stumps of Marinette county there exists and thrives a burg of some eight or nine hundred inhabitants, called Wausaukee. This town is the home of state senator Bird and the unique library club-house which he established to drive out the saloons. It is a live little community, especially in the spring time, when it becomes in a small way the clearing-house for lumberjacks. All of them, it is to be regretted, do not break training and prepare for the summer of civilization at Senator Bird's library.

In addition to the advantages cited, Wausaukee boasts of a saw-mill, electric lights, and J. Cokey. Just who J. Cokey is the world is destined some day to know. The why and wherefore of a communication from his trenchant pen appearing in a recent issue of a Milwaukee newspaper. That "it" is a constant student of the wide-world and its doing cannot be doubted. A trifling complaint from a remote point like Janesville immediately arrests his eye and calling all his finer emotions into play he forthwith extends a helping hand at the same time delivering a sly back-hand slap at his fellow townsman and town chairman, Bird.

Brother Cokey's ideas of Janesville's railroad connections are a trifle vague. Sixty-four passenger trains a day would keep the populace of Wausaukee away from their busy mart and the booze counters the entire twenty-four hours and it is perhaps not to be wondered at that the northern discoverer, localizing the south Wisconsin metropolis at long range and ever on the alert to open the sluice-gates of his sympathies should impose the same quaint limitations from which his home village has so recently emerged. Here is his offering:

To the Editor: In the Free Press of the 23rd I noticed in a special dispatch from Janesville that the inspectors in the late primary are not satisfied with their pay of $3 for working from 6 a. m. to 12 p. m. The matter appealed so strongly to my sympathy that I feel like extending it to the poor fellows. It is too bad that Janesville is located so far from Wausaukee for if she were a little closer we might annex her and then this trivial question would be a member of the past. Of course were Janesville connected with the outside world (Wausaukee) with proper telephone and telegraph service the mere matter of geographical location would cut very little figure in the matter. Her extreme isolation and appeals to me very strongly and should be considered in mitigation of her inability to deal with such a small matter as the getting round of statutory provision fixing the pay of inspectors. I would suggest that Janesville send a committee to Wausaukee and be certain for their benefit how the officials here obtain double the three dollars for their work and also their meals at the expense of the taxpayers on election day. Or if the question of expense (riding on stage coaches is very expensive) in sending the aforementioned committee would be too great for Janesville to bear, communication with our present chairman, who is now at Madison in the capacity of senator, is suggested as an easy and inexpensive means of obtaining light upon the matter.

J. GOKEY.

Wausaukee, March 25.

Loss of Sleep Means Loss of Mind.

Inability to Sleep is Nature's Plain Warning of an Exhausted Nervous System.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

When you overwork any muscle or set of muscles they tire and must have rest. What is true of muscle is doubly true of the brain, as from it emanates all power to work, to act, to think. The brain is full of little cells that during the waking hours are never quiet in their efforts to furnish to every organ the power to do its duty. Rob these little cells of their rest at night—keep them at work all the time, and soon they tire, refuse to act, fail to generate nerve force and the system goes to ruin. Bromides, sedatives, opiates only hasten the end—they do not build up, they tear down. The true remedy the only cure lies in Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, a medicine that revitalizes, rejuvenates, and by properly nourishing these overworked little cells, gives them rest and quiet and enables one to sleep naturally and easily again.

Mrs. Fred Wholen of Glade Run, Warren, Pa. Says:

"I was induced to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills for excessive nervousness. I was so nervous I could not bear a noise or much talking. I was very forgetful—my mind seemed dull. I was listless and tired all the time. The result of the use of the box I got was remarkable. They toned up the nerves and system generally and I work well again, am strong—my mind is clear and noise and talk no longer bother me. I am much pleased with the pills and can recommend them highly to anyone who feels as I did." 50 cents a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medical Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Postpaid and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

CHAPTER XVII.

DEALS MAINLY WITH A GAME OF CHANCE IN WHICH FRONTENAC SHUFFLES THE CARDS.

Tonti was welcomed by Frontenac with great rejoicing. The many tales of death and disaster, industriously circulated by La Salle's enemies, had caused many moments of anxiety to the comte's mind, and he had come to fear lest, after all, they might be true, and he had lost both friend and future fortune.

Accordingly after dinner, the night of Tonti's arrival, they drew near the table, on which was laid the only map that Frontenac possessed of the western wilds. Having spread this out carefully before him, he turned to Tonti, saying:

"Come, mon ami, to your narrative! I am consumed to know each step of your perilous journey."

Then did Tonti commence and relate in full all that had happened to the hapless party in its wanderings, pointing out from time to time on the map the course of their progress. Frontenac interrupted him often with eager questionings, with exclamations of rage and alarm at moments of peril, and with chuckles of delight and roars of giant laughter as he learned how difficulties had been overcome or overcome.

"Parbleu!" he exclaimed, "a worthy blow! And with your iron fist, a Mohican chief?"

"Yes, heet in the street at Montreal by a half score drunken Inroquois as La Salle and I passed by. They went too far in their tormentings and tried to cut his ear with a hunting knife. I could not stand it and went to his aid. They fled, spitting out broken teeth as they ran, leaving the Mohican brave with us. He begged permission to accompany us. It is he, Akiesko, by name, who, with Pompon, has braved the dangers of our return to Quebec."

"That droll Pompon! His wit and cunning must have helped you many times."

"Certainment! Had it not been for him we should never have returned. His quick eye it was that saw something was amiss on Christmas eve, as we sailed from Fort Frontenac across the lake, and perceived the rocks the treacherous pilot, bought with Duchesneau's gold, was driving us straight upon. He it was who, following La Salle's tracks in the snow, found him gazing at the great falls with the assassin creeping close behind him, and who fired the shot that pierced the brain of the wretch and sent him tumbling into the abyss as he was about to strike our leader's death-blow. He it was, too, when on the banks of the river of the Illinois La Salle informed us that one must remain and hold the fort with the men, while the other two must force their way back to Quebec for aid, that volunteered to accompany me. I can also witness to his cunning when, our journey eastward half completed, we were caught by the Indians and would have perished miserably, both he and I and Akiesko, had he not had the lucky thought of feigning madness and leading the whole tribe a merry dance about the village, affording us an opportunity to escape. La Salle at times I believe he holds something more than brains within his head; methinks he has a devil! He also anticipated his fate that night with phosphorus paste so that when the savages followed him into the woods he turned upon them, his features all aglow in the dark, and they fled, giving him time to rejoin us. Then, too, the contents of his leather pouch afforded an antidote to the poison La Salle had eaten with his food, placed there by another of the intendants' accursed agents among our men."

"Peste! what villainy will not that rascal stoop to in order to gain his ends! But how about our noble friend La Salle? You say you left him at this point on the river of the Illinois, after building a fort you named 'Creve-cœur'? Why call it the Fort of the Breaking Heart?"

"Ah! mon ami, our commander named it that, out of the depths of his own grief and discouragement, after overcoming dangers and difficulties that would have turned back any other man a dozen times. Mon Dieu! now that you have me upon the subject of the friend I have learned to admire and love as my own brother, I can talk all night without stopping. What think you, after the final wreck of our little vessel and its stores at the mouth of the Niagara river by our unfaithful pilot, and the desertion of a goodly portion of his men, did he despair?"

"Found 'Seven Barks' A Splendid Medicine For Kidney and Liver."

On November 27, 1933, Mrs. Lucie E. Champagne, of Central Nassau, N. Y., writes us: "I have used your Seven Barks with excellent results. I think it is a splendid medicine for kidney and liver troubles, and it cannot be too highly recommended. I was in a bad shape when I commenced using it, and I am a well woman today."

If your kidneys trouble you, if your liver is sluggish, or if you are constipated, there's no remedy like Seven Barks. It is purely vegetable, easy to take (small doses) and will put you back quicker than anything else. If you've any doubts about it, a 50-cent bottle of Seven Barks will remove them, and the money isn't ours until you say you're cured. Your word decides it, not ours. No cure, no pay. That's our way of getting skeptical people to try this grand old remedy. Do you know of a better way?

BADGER DRUG COMPANY.

Mordieux! no! A shrug of the shoulder, a firm pressure of the lips, a straightening and stiffening of his body, as though to withstand an attack, were all the signs of the disappointment he showed. His voice was the gayest and the load upon his back was the heaviest of us all as we climbed up the steep bank and through the snowdrifts, bearing what remained of our supplies to a place of safety. Treachery met him at every hand; the very men whose burdens he had tried to lighten and whom he had watched and tended through sickness and starvation turned against him, thwarting his plans and crippling his resources. Even now, while I sit here, he is grappling with danger and disaster. Is it any wonder that for such a leader Pompon, Akiesko, and myself gladly risked our lives to return to Quebec for aid?

"With the eye of a general he has planned the winning of all that great land for the king and holy church, and has decided upon the spot to be first seized and held. A short distance up the river from the point where I left him is a giant rock, impregnable if once securely fortified, that will serve as the beginning of a new empire for France, and will preserve it against Indian and white man alike, besides forming the center of a vast trading enterprise. This plan, it successfully carried out, will give us the key to the whole situation. Ah! Cleio! M. le Gouverneur, if you do not give me aid, and that soon, his great heart will break. When final disappointment comes to natures such as his, there is no other end."

Tonti spoke with feeling as he leaned toward Frontenac in his earnestness. "Bravo!" cried the Comte, and his huge hand came down with a clasp upon Tonti's as it rested on the table. "You do not disappoint my first estimate of you. You are indeed a worthy associate for the courageous La Salle. With a score of men like you two, I could conquer and hold the entire new world."

Thus they talked and planned to meet the great demands that the emergency required for the successful issue of the great enterprise until day dawned. And as they strove, the patient heart of their comrade alone in the wilderness with a handful of mutinous men yearned for the succor so desperately needed, and his eyes beheld above the forest tree-tops the breaking of another day of hope and endeavor undimmed.

Meanwhile Renee was welcomed heartily by the men, who attributed the intense nervous excitement under which she was laboring to the dangers to which she had so recently been exposed. She quickly sought solace in order to think out some plan of action. She had learned from one of the women standing by all that had occurred at the gate of the seigniorial after she had fainted, and her heart was filled with rage and shame. The poisoned lie told by Madame Bizard had done its work. Tonti, the ideal, the hero; Tonti, the gallant and brave; Tonti, the fair prince, the possible lover the chance of meeting whom had rendered her exile bearable, was de-throned, and she saw in him only an ordinary man, impure, base, deceiving, an enemy to be avoided. Although no words of love had passed between them, yet the remembrance of the budding passion that she had recognized within her breast scorched her brain anew. As long as he was far distant she had been able to try bravely to overcome her disappointment, but his proximity had aroused within her a sense of danger and a desire to flee. Banished from her home through a peril she could not combat, she found herself surrounded by fresh hazards. She had fled to the convent to escape the Comte de Miron, and now like a hunted animal she sought a new refuge as another enemy appeared in view.

The rumored presence of the escaped comte as leader of a band of the murderous Inroquois rendered her unsafe except while under the direct protection of Frontenac. The arrival of Tonti, whom her unsettled imagination pictured to her as having abandoned his comrades in the wilderness, was a menace even under the sheltering walls of the fort.

"That night she attended a meeting of all the nuns and heard a letter read from one of the priests at Michilimackinac brought by a messenger who had joined Tonti at Fort Frontenac, in which was depicted the pitiful condition of the Indians and whites who were suffering from an epidemic of smallpox, and imploring the aid of two nurses to assist the three already there. The message, frank though it was in relating the hardship and dangers inevitable to one responding to this Macedonian cry for help, came to her as the trumpet-call to duty as well as an avenue of escape. The superior announced that they would be able to spare but one nun for the work, and would appeal to the convents for a volunteer to accompany her. Only one responded; it was Renee, who arose and offered herself for the service.

She hurriedly sought Frontenac the next morning to obtain his consent. She found him busily engaged at his desk, but he brushed everything aside as she entered and arose to meet her with a smile.

"Don jour, ma chere mademoiselle," he exclaimed, "I am relieved at having you back once more under my eye. I was going to expose you to the peril that you have so fortunately escaped. I promise you I shall be more careful in the future and shall keep you safe beneath the guns of Quebec and allow no more pilgrimages into the wilderness."

"Pardon me, my protector, if I seem wilful," responded Renee, "but I have one boon to ask of you that you must grant or I die," and she fell upon her knees, stretching forth her hands appealingly.

"Ma foi! my fair petitioner, it would ill become my strength to refuse aught to one in such extremity. But come," he continued in a kindly tone, as he raised her, and leading her to a chair, insisted on her being seated. "Tell me of your troubles, for that you are in great distress I can well see. Remember I am devoted to your interest, and you may need an older head to solve some of your problems."

The fatherly note in his voice, his gentle insistence, came as an infinite relief to Renee's troubled mind. There was strength for her weakness, counsel for her perplexity. The extreme tension she had been under rendered her woman's heart susceptible to these kindly words, and she buried her face in her hands and wept violently. Frontenac drew his chair near and strove to quiet her with compassionate words and light stroking of her hair, as a father would comfort an unhappy child. Gradually the sobs ceased, and Renee told him of her decision.

"Mon Dieu!" he exclaimed in astonishment, "leave the security of the fort for the thousand perils of the wilderness? Impossible! It would be the rankest folly."

Renee then opened her heart to her companion, and the iron-gray head of the doughty warrior was bent in wondering interest at the recital of the perils of the girl, the depth of a woman's love, the wound a feminine heart can suffer and yet live, and the strength of purpose of a noble nature that has resolved to conquer, even though it be by flight. She told of the Comte de Miron, of his duel with Tonti, of her adventure in the chair, of her love she felt to be returned, of the appearance of the comte in Quebec. As regards Tonti she contented herself with saying that she had learned that she was mistaken in her estimate of the man, that he was all unworthy of her love, and that, in short, she had ceased to love him. Her reliance as to the cause of her change of feeling, the vehemence with which she expressed her dislike, and the evidences of mingled shame and hurt pride in her tone, caused Frontenac to smile indulgently. He listened patiently until the end and then dismissed her, saying in a soothing tone: "I will consider the matter ma chere, and if I find no other remedy, believe me I shall not stand in your way of escape from this rascal, but shall aid you all in my power."

Renee thanked him and arose to go. As she passed through the anteroom she was startled at finding Tonti standing by the window, evidently awaiting an opportunity to see the comte. He, too, was surprised at beholding her, and bowed low as she passed, muttering some commonplace greeting. She, however, neither raised his bow, his words, nor herself, but with eyes fixed in front of her, passed rapidly through the door with an air of haughty pride and disdain that would have done credit to mademoiselle herself, and was gone.

Frontenac saw this by-play and laughed at the rueful countenance with which Tonti greeted him. "There seems to be some mistake," he said. "You apparently think you know the fair comtesse, while she believes differently. Ah! you know, trying your fascinations on every pretty woman you meet!"

"Pardon, M. le Comte," replied Tonti, stiffly, "but I knew the young lady before leaving France, hence my salutation. She probably did not see me."

"Very likely," responded Frontenac, dryly. "Since you know her so well she will probably tell you how it happens. It is here and all about herself. I will save me the trouble."

Tonti grasped him by the wrist nervously. "Come," he said, "you are my friend. Tell me when and why did she leave France?"

Frontenac, seeing the young man's earnestness, good-naturedly told him of the arrival of his charge. "She has fled from Louis," murmured Tonti. "But why this garb of a religieuse?"

"To escape the attentions of a worthless adventurer who came in the same ship. She wished to become a nun, but I was not willing to allow that."

"Wished to become a nun!" exclaimed Tonti, in astonishment. "How can that be? She loves La Salle, and he is devoted?"

"Loves La Salle!" laughed Frontenac long and loudly. "Hot! hot! my friend, I happen to know better than that."

Tonti's face flushed angrily. He took a step forward, crying, "You know? What can you know—unless, par Dieu! you are wooing her and intend to marry her yourself?"

Frontenac fairly choked with merriment at these impetuous words. When he was able to speak again he said: "Mordieu! one at a time! Do I want both ears boxed? But come, my warlike friend, sit down and evaporate your wrath."

Tonti took several strides up and down the room, then turning to his companion, exclaimed: "Pardon, mon ami, but I am distracted and know not what I say. Hear me, and decide if I have not reason for my madness. I meet a beautiful woman in Paris. I worship and adore her. She is friendly. I leave France; and my comrade, he whom I have sworn to aid and defend, confides in my honor."

A mighty secret, tells me that he loves the same woman, and that he has every reason to believe that he can win her. Two years later I approach a besieged seignior in the wilderness and find her, the woman I love and whom I left across the seas, as the defender of the post. I meet her here; she will not even recognize me. You talk of her and tell me she desires the convent and the veil. Mon Dieu! what am I to believe?"

Summer Terrors

An itching, burning skin disease during the hot, sultry summer weather, is a positive terror and a veritable demon of discomfort. The intolerable itching and stinging are tantalizing almost beyond endurance, and the unsightly eruption and rough, red skin keep one thoroughly uncomfortable and miserable night and day. Eczema, Tetter, and diseases of this type are caused by acid poisons in the blood, which the heat of summer seems to warm into life and renewed activity. These fiery acids keep the blood in a riotous and sour condition, and the skin unhealthy and feverish—they inflame the pores and retard perspiration, when the whole body feels like an over-heated furnace, and the escaping poison burns and blisters like liquid fire.

TORMENTING ECZEMA.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May, 1893. In 1896 I experienced at times patches on the inside of my hands that itched and burned, causing much discomfort. As time went by it grew worse. I had used medicine in my early twenties (now 50 years of age) and was convinced that I was afflicted with a type of Eczema. I consulted several physicians and a number of specialists, one of which was claimed to be a certain specific. I confess, however, I had but little faith in external applications, yet I used them, receiving but slight temporary relief. In February I decided to try S. S. S. and in less than a month I experienced a change for the better, and by May of that year all symptoms had disappeared, and I found myself entirely cured, and have had no return of the disease since.

or check the outflow of the burning fluids through the skin. Only persistent and faithful constitutional treatment can do this. The acid poison in the blood, which is the real cause of the eruption, must be attacked, and when the blood has been cleared of all accumulated impurities and restored to a healthy condition, then, and only then, will a thorough and lasting cure be effected, and for the accomplishment of all this, no remedy equals S. S. S., which contains all requirements for cleansing and building up the acid blood, and invigorating and toning up the system. S. S. S. completely and permanently eradicates every vestige of poison, thus effectually preventing a fresh outbreak of the disease.

Cases that have resisted ordinary treatment for years, yield to the purifying, cooling effects of S. S. S. upon the blood, and when rich, pure blood is again circulating through the system, the itching and stinging cease, the eruption disappears, and the red, rough skin becomes soft and smooth again.

Skin diseases appear in various forms—sometimes in pustules or blisters, sores, rashes, or red, disfiguring bumps and pimples—but all are caused by a bad condition of the blood, and for which S. S. S. is a safe and effectual cure. No bad effects can come from its use, because it contains no Arsenic, Potash or other harmful drugs, but is guaranteed a strictly vegetable cure.

If you are a sufferer from some summer terror like Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Nettle Rash or Kindred disease, write us about it, and medical advice or any special information wanted will be given without charge.

Our Book on Skin Diseases will be sent free to all desiring it.

Senator Says Canada and Mother Country Are Drifting Apart.

Ottawa, Ont., March 29.—Senator Power, former speaker of the upper chamber, said in the senate in moving for papers in connection with the withdrawal of imperial forces from Halifax and Esquimaux, that Canada and the mother country were drifting apart. The withdrawal of the imperial troops, he believed, would be followed by the withdrawal of a governor general. He referred to the Alaskan boundary decision and other international questions as factors in loosening the ties which bind the empire together. Mr. Scott, leader of the senate, said the papers would be brought down. He agreed with what had been said by Senator Power.

THE ITCHING WAS TERRIBLE. For three years I had Tetter on my hands, which caused them to swell to twice their natural size. Part of the time the itching was in the form of running sores, very painful and causing me much discomfort. Four doctors said the Tetter had progressed too far to be cured, and they could do nothing for me. I took only three bottles of S. S. S. and was completely cured. This was fifteen years ago, and I have never since seen any sign of my old trouble.

Four doctors said the Tetter had progressed too far to be cured, and they could do nothing for me. I took only three bottles of S. S. S. and was completely cured. This was fifteen years ago, and I have never since seen any sign of my old trouble.

Mrs. L. D. JACKSON, 537 St. Paul St., Kansas City, Kan.

For three years I had Tetter on my hands, which caused them to swell to twice their natural size. Part of the time the itching was in the form of running sores, very painful and causing me much discomfort. Four doctors said the Tetter had progressed too far to be cured, and they could do nothing for me. I took only three bottles of S. S. S. and was completely cured. This was fifteen years ago, and I have never since seen any sign of my old trouble.

OFFICE OF CITY CLERK,
March 28, 1905.

To the Electors of the City of Janesville, Wisconsin:

INFORMATION TO VOTERS.

Directions for voting on the Voting Machine.

- 1st. Close the Curtain.
  - 2nd. Pull the Yellow Lever having on it the names of your political party over to the Right until the Bell rings. (This will turn down the Pointers over the names of the candidates in your party.)
  - 3rd. If you wish to vote a Straight Party Ticket, leave the Pointers as they are, (Down, in their voting position). But if you wish to "split", or "scratch", your ticket, turn UP the Pointer from over the name of the candidate in your own party that you wish to cut out, and then turn Down the Pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for for that office, and leave it there.
  - 4th. Vote for the Judges and State Superintendent in columns No. 13 and higher, by turning down a Pointer over each name you wish to vote for, and leaving it there. (As these are non-partisan officers, they must each be voted for individually, as their Pointers are not turned down by the pulling of the Party Levers.)
  - 5th. Open the Curtain.
- NOTE—Unless you are sure that you know just how to operate the machine, it would be well for you to practice on some machine before election day.

HOW TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS.

To vote Yes, turn the Question Pointer to the word Yes, and leave it there. To vote No, turn the Question Pointer to the word No, and leave it there.

VOTER PULLING OVER PARTY LEVER.

Leave the Pointers as they are (down in a voting position). Move the Red Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go. This will count your vote, open the Curtain, and set the machine for the next voter.

HOW TO VOTE A SPLIT TICKET.

Having closed the Curtain—Pull the Party Lever bearing the name or emblem of your Party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS, and then let it go back. This turns down all of the Pointers of your party to a voting position. Turn back (up) the Pointer from over the name of the candidate you wish to cut. See illustration below.

And then turn down a Pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for for that office. See illustration below.
